Q: Are there any changes to the hover states of the UI for each new version of Drupal? We're building a portal for students and I'm worried about the usefulness of the UI across Drupal versions. Is there any way to make the different UI elements (for example, the Breadcrumbs) show their information in a different way for each new version of Drupal? I'm hoping to go from Drupal 6 to Drupal 7 (or any version after), but I'm not sure if it will make a difference. A: In my opinion, the UI is the same and can't be customized per content type. What you have to worry about is the content management process itself and how it should be interpreted by the admins with different skill levels. In theory you can create your own mobile theme on Drupal that will have a customized UI for mobile devices. The GRAFENSTEIN of the Nibelungenlied The Nibelungenlied, the oldest German poem of the medieval age, is an epic poem about three monarchs named Siegfried, Gunther and Kriemhild, who went on a journey to gain the eternal treasure. This legend set the development of the epic Nibelungenlied in the 13th century. The first part of the epic, the younger Nibelungenlied, was founded on the foundation of the legend-shaped long poem by the Chronicler Uta, which was written about 1000 AD. The older Nibelungenlied, which has been written in the 13th century, is considered a continuation of this poem. The Nibelungenlied ends with the death of Siegfried, aged 99 years, and the last two princes are kept in prison by King Etzel until the last turn of the Nibelungenlied. The Nibelungenlied is a fictional story for thousands of people, for everyone is involved in the story. The legend, however, is based on a realistic basis, and its author won the glorious view of history. The writer of the Nibelungenlied or authors of the individual episodes, the so-called Middleburg, were contemporary with the events that they described. Siegfried is the 12th son of Etzel, who is also born and raised to the royal house (the titles of the princes in this poem): Is this the son who is described here? Kriemhild is born of the daughter of Gunther, who is described here. It is no wonder that we are interested in the adventures of Siegfried, as it is the owner of the small island and lands of the kingdom, as well as the son of the king. The whole story is based on the idea of the Nibelungenring: women are forced to give up their lover after a journey. This is Kriemhild - the sister of Hagen - on her way home from the wedding of Gunther and Kriemhild. Siegfried's death, which is described in the classic, is therefore the question of his right to the ring. K
