It's an application that can be used as a basic surveillance tool for homes or areas that cover relatively small surfaces. Connect to IP cameras and record activity With Easy Viewer IP Cam you are able to connect to up to 9 IP cameras and simultaneously view and record their feed. The application allows you to manually configure each one in terms of displayed name, DDNS address, port number, as well as username and password. Once connected, the application displays their video streams in equally large frames, making it possible for you to follow activity from all of them. Besides that, you can also record video and store it on your computer for backup, analysis and so on. A really good thing about the recording feature is it can be enabled in a multitude of ways. Depending on your storage space or time of day, you can configure Easy Viewer IP Cam to start recording only when you permit it, immediately as it is run or when the camera detects motion. Moreover, apart from video, the application makes it possible to grab screenshots from cameras at regular intervals and stores them in a custom location on your computer. Easily control PTZ cameras Though its looks and standard features don't propel it into a high-end class of surveillance software, Easy

KeyMACRO is a light-weight and easy-to-use alternative to expensive or problematic MAC based LogiCam Control Systems from LogiCam. It is designed to provide maximum control over multiple cameras on a local area network. KeyMACRO can be run on Windows or Linux operating systems. It is open source software available on KeyMACRO Features: - High performance network based real time IP Cameras -... Playbox IP Camera iOS App Store 8.1 5 1,446 July 27, 2018 By far the best IP camera app out there... It's an app that I have used for a few months now and I'm very satisfied with it. Unlike the other IP camera apps, this one doesn't allow you to adjust the video resolution or frame size. If you are searching for an app that offers a solution for that, I recommend using the other IP camera apps. But if you are fine with the current settings, this app is worth the price. The app takes a short time to install, configure, and get up and running. There are two options available when you first open the app: - Connect to cameras - Manage cameras The app offers two modes of control for each of the cameras: - PTZ - a pan, tilt and zoom mode - Webview - a webview mode where you can access the cameras directly in your browser The cameras can be updated whenever you want and automatically without the need of configuring anything else. The app also allows you to take snapshots of the camera which can be directly sent to your social networks. I should mention that it is not a freemium app. You can't play with it for free. However, you can use it to check the cameras, update them, or manage them without any limitation. The app also supports MacOS, Android and Windows devices. The only thing that I dislike about the app is that it is not available on the app store. I have to install it on my iphone myself and download it on my computer, then upload it to my iphone. You can download it from the following link: Dashboard BlackBerry App World 4.5 329 2edc1e01e8
